ELECTION PROCESS

Should an election prove necessary, election packages will be emailed or mailed to all Plan members on Tuesday, October 27, 2020.

ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A PENSION BOARD MEMBER

The UBC Staff Pension Plan is administered by a Pension Board. There are nine Board members on the Pension Board; four are appointed by the University, four are elected by members of the Plan, and the UBC Board of Governors appoints an independent non-voting chair.

The University has delegated many administrative functions to the Pension Board. The primary responsibility of the Pension Board is to represent the interests of all members and recommend Plan policy and procedure improvements to the University, including the Plan's asset mix. The day-to-day administrative duties are performed by the staff in the UBC Pension Administration Office who work closely with the Pension Board.

Board members, because of their responsibilities, become knowledgeable in:

- Plan Design,
- Plan funding and benefit security, and
- Plan asset management.

Once elected to the Pension Board, a Board member is expected to attend approximately six five-hour business meetings per year and the annual Pension Fair. This is a voluntary, non-remunerative commitment, which requires the cooperation of the Board member's supervisor.

Please note that the University is responsible for investing the Plan's assets. The University has delegated this responsibility to UBC Investment Management Trust (UBC IMANT), and the UBC Board of Governors appoints the UBC IMANT Board. UBC IMANT has been delegated the responsibility of implementing the asset mix policy as determined by the Pension Board and their advisors, and as approved by the UBC Board of Governors.
